

AND STILL NO QUORUM

Resolutions of the Caucus Ignored by Eastern Democrats.

Mr. Bland Unable to Break the Deadlock in the House and Secure a Vote on His Seigniorage Bill.

SEVEN MEMBERS ARRESTED

Arraigned Before the Bar of the House and Excused.

All Were Republicans, No Democrats Having Been Found—Gossip About Fines—Senate Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The deadlock on the Bland seigniorage bill was not broken in the House to-day. Roll call followed roll call until 4 o'clock, when it being apparent that Mr. Bland could not muster a quorum on his proposition he moved an adjournment.

When the House met this morning the first thing in order was the consideration of the report of the Sergeant-at-Arms, who was instructed by resolution last night to arrest absentees. Mr. Reed raised a question as to the rights of the Sergeant-at-Arms to arrest Mr. Apsley, who voted on the last call of the House. It was explained that the Journal did not show the latter fact, but upon his statement that he had responded to his name the Speaker ruled that the subsequent proceedings looking to his arrest fell. Mr. Post, who had also been arrested, explained that while he had not voted on the call of the House he had voted upon the subsequent motion to adjourn. Upon this representation he was excused.

The Sergeant-at-Arms then came forward at the request of the Speaker and made his report. It was to the effect that thirty-seven telegrams had been sent to absentees, that fifteen replies had been received. Five replied that they were sick, and ten were on their way to Washington. Seven members, the report stated, had been arrested—Messrs. Apsley, Gardiner, Hillborn, Post, Randall, Lucas and Marvin (all Republicans). The whereabouts of thirty-four members had not been yet ascertained.

The five members in custody, who had not been excused, were then brought to the bar of the House. Like schoolboys, they were ordered by the Speaker to give their excuses for being absent from the House without leave. The members crowded about the area, where the members were ranged in a row, and enjoyed the situation immensely. All were excused after giving satisfactory reasons for their absence.

Mr. Bland stated a quorum would never be obtained unless members remained in their seats. "Oh, I don't think the chance of getting a quorum," interjected Mr. Enloe, referring to the fact that when present Mr. Randall refused to vote, "was diminished by the gentleman's absence."

Mr. Burrows wanted to know if there was anything in the order to the Sergeant-at-Arms restricting the arrest of members to Republicans. The Speaker replied, good humoredly, that there was not.

Rising to an allied parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Grosvenor asked whether warrants had been issued for the arrest of those Democrats who refused to attend the Democratic caucus last night.

"I hardly think that is a parliamentary inquiry," replied the Speaker. "The last incident growing out of the arrest of absentees. Members laughing resumed their seats as committee on the call of committees for reports, Mr. Bland returned to the seige which he has been directing since the morning. He stated that the debate on the seigniorage bill was closed, and upon that motion demanded the previous question. The Republicans and Eastern Democrats repeated their filibustering tactics, and as on yesterday, succeeded in breaking a quorum. The vote resulted 12 to 2 in favor of the motion of Mr. Bland the call of the House was ordered. The call developed the presence of 24 members. The Speaker called on Mr. Bland's demand for the previous question. This vote resulted 12 to 5, twenty-three members voting in the affirmative than the preceding vote. Another call of the House followed. On this call the quorum again reappeared, 23 members responding.

Mr. Bland then made a statement to the effect that it was evident that a quorum could not be obtained as committee on the call of committees for reports, Mr. Bland returned to the seige which he has been directing since the morning. He stated that the debate on the seigniorage bill was closed, and upon that motion demanded the previous question. The Republicans and Eastern Democrats repeated their filibustering tactics, and as on yesterday, succeeded in breaking a quorum. The vote resulted 12 to 2 in favor of the motion of Mr. Bland the call of the House was ordered. The call developed the presence of 24 members. The Speaker called on Mr. Bland's demand for the previous question. This vote resulted 12 to 5, twenty-three members voting in the affirmative than the preceding vote. Another call of the House followed. On this call the quorum again reappeared, 23 members responding.

A lively skirmish occurred over the point of order, in which Messrs. Springer, Reed, McCreary and Bryman participated. Eventually, however, Mr. Bland poured oil on the troubled waters by withdrawing the resolution, at the time the House adjourned. The vote then again recurred on Mr. Bland's demand for the previous question. This vote resulted 12 to 5, within nine votes of a quorum. Another call of the House followed. The quorum reappeared only to disappear again on the next roll call. Then Mr. Bland stated that there was evidence a quorum could not be secured to-night, he moved an adjournment. Accordingly, at 4:30, the House adjourned.

A number of deputies from the office of the Sergeant-at-Arms left to-day for various parts of the country to arrest absent members. Those who have telegraphed that they are on their way will not be sent for, but deputies will be dispatched to the homes of all others.

Fining Members Unpopular.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—After six monotonous legislative days wasted in futile roll calls to gather a quorum on the Bland bill, Democrats are beginning to talk of measures to compel voting. Throughout most of this time there have been more than the needful 179 members within sight from the Speaker's desk, but many of them refusing to answer to their names when called. Outside of the hall, but in the city, there have been enough more members in favor of the bill, so that if its friends had all rallied they could have put it through last week. It was said to-day that there were fifteen free silver members in the city who were absent from the Capitol. It is not strange that under these circumstances the Democrats, and particularly the supporters of the Bland bill, have been chafing under the rules which permit endless filibustering, particularly as they know from past experience that so long as the present Rules remain unamended the Republicans will continue to compel the Democrats to a quorum for the passage of any measures desired to the minority. With ex-Speaker Reed in the chair the fact that the Democrats obstruct legislation were impossible because of his method of recording the members present and not voting. The House, so think the Republicans, is forcing the Democrats toward the alternative of resorting to the use of force.

The final session of the convention was held to-night. The programme included an address by the Hon. Simon Wolf, of the District of Columbia, and the Hon. Mary Seymour Howells, of New York; Virginia Young, of South Carolina, and Rev. Ida C. Hunt, of Illinois.

At the conclusion of the addresses Miss Susan B. Anthony, in a very well chosen address, declared the convention adjourned, and that the next year in Atlanta, Ga.

Railroad employes all believe in Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, the old stand-by.

GLADSTONE WAS WILD

He Did Not Scare the Lords in the Commons as Expected.

But His Appearance in the House and Brief Speech of Protest Were Sufficient to Evoke Cheers.

OUTRAGES BY FRENCH REDS

Bomb Placed Over a Door and Five Persons Wounded.

Another Bomb Similarly Placed in a Paris Hotel—Latest from the Brazilian Seat of War.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—There was a notable gathering in the House of Commons to-day in anticipation of hearing a great speech from Mr. Gladstone, who, according to reports, was going to make an attack on the House of Lords in connection with the recent so-called obstruction of legislation as evidenced by the amendments by the peers to such popular measures as the parish council bill and the employers' liability bill, not to mention the rejection by the Lords of the home-rule bill. The House was crowded, and it was noticed that many peers were present in the galleries. As Mr. Gladstone, wrapped in a heavy cloak and accompanied by his wife, drove to the House of Commons he was met by a hearty reception by all who recognized him, and especially by the crowd which had assembled in palace yard, in front of the House of Commons. Mr. Gladstone, carefully dressed and with a flower in his buttonhole, entered the House during the "questions" portion of the preliminary proceedings and was loudly cheered, not only by his admirers, but by many of the opponents of the grand old man. He was not long in the chamber before he rose, in answer to a question put by Sir Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett, one of the members for Sheffield, and said that there was no evidence that the Brazilian insurgents had constituted a government of such a character as to entitle them to recognition as belligerents.

After the rest of the questions had been disposed of, Mr. Gladstone, amid long and cheering applause, moved to the discharge of the order of the day. He then proceeded to the subject of the employers' liability bill. The speech of Mr. Gladstone, in making this motion, lasted only fifteen minutes. He remarked, during the course of his remarks, that he was convinced that a large majority of the working classes were opposed to the House of Lords amendments. He said that the House of Lords amendments were the best judges in matters which related to their own affairs (cheers), and if the amendments were adopted, the bill would be improved, and they would be deprived of all the benefits of the bill.

The Right Hon. J. Balfour, the Conservative leader, who has also been cheered on all sides when he has addressed the House of Lords amendments, claiming that the working people favored them.

Finally the House, by a vote of 235 to 4, adopted Mr. Gladstone's motion, and amid loud laughter, the bill was withdrawn.

Replying to a question on the subject of the Board of Trade, said that he was informed by the Gladstone of the situation in New York that she had not brought back from New York numbers of Italians and Polish allies, and that the situation was not as bad as the United States. The total of the people brought back was eight, five of whom had been refused admission under the "alien law," and three whose destination was unknown.

The House rejected all the important amendments made by the House of Lords to the parish council bill and accepted the unimportant amendments. It then adjourned until Saturday.

Mr. Gladstone's followers had expected a great oratorical effort from the Premier, and they were disappointed. He spoke with courage and strike dismay in the trembling peers. They listened, instead of to Mr. Gladstone's speech, to the speech of Mr. Gladstone's followers. The House of Commons delivered for a long time.

The Chronicle calls the debate in the House a ludicrous farce, and says it would be difficult to imagine more undignified and pointless a debate. Mr. Gladstone's speech was totally unworthy of the occasion and chilled his followers to the bone. The House of Commons delivered for a long time.

FIENDISH ANARCHISTS.
Latest Deeds of Paris "Reds"—Five Persons Wounded.
PARIS, Feb. 20.—The Anarchists are still at work terrorizing and killing innocent people. Three assassinations were committed yesterday, and the police are responsible. The police are responsible for the Parisians to-day.

A man of suspicious appearance recently hired a furnished room in a small tenement, situated at No. 63 Rue St. Jacques. He disappeared on or about Monday, and as he did not return last night the wife of the proprietor of the hotel, Mme. Calabresi, knocked at the door and finally succeeded in breaking in unless it was opened. She, however, delayed in carrying out her intention to enter the apartment until 1:30 this morning, when she again tried to open the door, this time employing force. While engaged in the task the landlady became aware that something had caught in the top of the door, and, upon closer examination, she found that it was to all appearance a bomb or an infernal machine. Mme. Calabresi ran away from the door in alarm and called her husband, who, after making an inspection of the supposed bomb, called a policeman, who promptly but unwisely put his shoulder to the door and burst it open. This caused the bomb, shaped like a sardine box and covered with a piece of red cloth, to explode, inflicting terrible injuries upon Mme. Calabresi, who was wounded in the abdomen, and wounding her husband, fracturing the leg of M. Ismael, a commission agent, who had been attracted to the scene by the arrival of the policeman, and wounding a young woman, who accompanied him. An uncle of Mme. Calabresi also received a slight injury. According to reports, the bomb was placed where it was found by an Anarchist lodger, who was a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

GLADSTONE WAS WILD

He Did Not Scare the Lords in the Commons as Expected.

But His Appearance in the House and Brief Speech of Protest Were Sufficient to Evoke Cheers.

OUTRAGES BY FRENCH REDS

Bomb Placed Over a Door and Five Persons Wounded.

Another Bomb Similarly Placed in a Paris Hotel—Latest from the Brazilian Seat of War.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—There was a notable gathering in the House of Commons to-day in anticipation of hearing a great speech from Mr. Gladstone, who, according to reports, was going to make an attack on the House of Lords in connection with the recent so-called obstruction of legislation as evidenced by the amendments by the peers to such popular measures as the parish council bill and the employers' liability bill, not to mention the rejection by the Lords of the home-rule bill. The House was crowded, and it was noticed that many peers were present in the galleries. As Mr. Gladstone, wrapped in a heavy cloak and accompanied by his wife, drove to the House of Commons he was met by a hearty reception by all who recognized him, and especially by the crowd which had assembled in palace yard, in front of the House of Commons. Mr. Gladstone, carefully dressed and with a flower in his buttonhole, entered the House during the "questions" portion of the preliminary proceedings and was loudly cheered, not only by his admirers, but by many of the opponents of the grand old man. He was not long in the chamber before he rose, in answer to a question put by Sir Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett, one of the members for Sheffield, and said that there was no evidence that the Brazilian insurgents had constituted a government of such a character as to entitle them to recognition as belligerents.

After the rest of the questions had been disposed of, Mr. Gladstone, amid long and cheering applause, moved to the discharge of the order of the day. He then proceeded to the subject of the employers' liability bill. The speech of Mr. Gladstone, in making this motion, lasted only fifteen minutes. He remarked, during the course of his remarks, that he was convinced that a large majority of the working classes were opposed to the House of Lords amendments. He said that the House of Lords amendments were the best judges in matters which related to their own affairs (cheers), and if the amendments were adopted, the bill would be improved, and they would be deprived of all the benefits of the bill.

The Right Hon. J. Balfour, the Conservative leader, who has also been cheered on all sides when he has addressed the House of Lords amendments, claiming that the working people favored them.

Finally the House, by a vote of 235 to 4, adopted Mr. Gladstone's motion, and amid loud laughter, the bill was withdrawn.

Replying to a question on the subject of the Board of Trade, said that he was informed by the Gladstone of the situation in New York that she had not brought back from New York numbers of Italians and Polish allies, and that the situation was not as bad as the United States. The total of the people brought back was eight, five of whom had been refused admission under the "alien law," and three whose destination was unknown.

The House rejected all the important amendments made by the House of Lords to the parish council bill and accepted the unimportant amendments. It then adjourned until Saturday.

Mr. Gladstone's followers had expected a great oratorical effort from the Premier, and they were disappointed. He spoke with courage and strike dismay in the trembling peers. They listened, instead of to Mr. Gladstone's speech, to the speech of Mr. Gladstone's followers. The House of Commons delivered for a long time.

The Chronicle calls the debate in the House a ludicrous farce, and says it would be difficult to imagine more undignified and pointless a debate. Mr. Gladstone's speech was totally unworthy of the occasion and chilled his followers to the bone. The House of Commons delivered for a long time.

FIENDISH ANARCHISTS.
Latest Deeds of Paris "Reds"—Five Persons Wounded.
PARIS, Feb. 20.—The Anarchists are still at work terrorizing and killing innocent people. Three assassinations were committed yesterday, and the police are responsible. The police are responsible for the Parisians to-day.

A man of suspicious appearance recently hired a furnished room in a small tenement, situated at No. 63 Rue St. Jacques. He disappeared on or about Monday, and as he did not return last night the wife of the proprietor of the hotel, Mme. Calabresi, knocked at the door and finally succeeded in breaking in unless it was opened. She, however, delayed in carrying out her intention to enter the apartment until 1:30 this morning, when she again tried to open the door, this time employing force. While engaged in the task the landlady became aware that something had caught in the top of the door, and, upon closer examination, she found that it was to all appearance a bomb or an infernal machine. Mme. Calabresi ran away from the door in alarm and called her husband, who, after making an inspection of the supposed bomb, called a policeman, who promptly but unwisely put his shoulder to the door and burst it open. This caused the bomb, shaped like a sardine box and covered with a piece of red cloth, to explode, inflicting terrible injuries upon Mme. Calabresi, who was wounded in the abdomen, and wounding her husband, fracturing the leg of M. Ismael, a commission agent, who had been attracted to the scene by the arrival of the policeman, and wounding a young woman, who accompanied him. An uncle of Mme. Calabresi also received a slight injury. According to reports, the bomb was placed where it was found by an Anarchist lodger, who was a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

GLADSTONE WAS WILD

He Did Not Scare the Lords in the Commons as Expected.

But His Appearance in the House and Brief Speech of Protest Were Sufficient to Evoke Cheers.

OUTRAGES BY FRENCH REDS

Bomb Placed Over a Door and Five Persons Wounded.

Another Bomb Similarly Placed in a Paris Hotel—Latest from the Brazilian Seat of War.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—There was a notable gathering in the House of Commons to-day in anticipation of hearing a great speech from Mr. Gladstone, who, according to reports, was going to make an attack on the House of Lords in connection with the recent so-called obstruction of legislation as evidenced by the amendments by the peers to such popular measures as the parish council bill and the employers' liability bill, not to mention the rejection by the Lords of the home-rule bill. The House was crowded, and it was noticed that many peers were present in the galleries. As Mr. Gladstone, wrapped in a heavy cloak and accompanied by his wife, drove to the House of Commons he was met by a hearty reception by all who recognized him, and especially by the crowd which had assembled in palace yard, in front of the House of Commons. Mr. Gladstone, carefully dressed and with a flower in his buttonhole, entered the House during the "questions" portion of the preliminary proceedings and was loudly cheered, not only by his admirers, but by many of the opponents of the grand old man. He was not long in the chamber before he rose, in answer to a question put by Sir Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett, one of the members for Sheffield, and said that there was no evidence that the Brazilian insurgents had constituted a government of such a character as to entitle them to recognition as belligerents.

After the rest of the questions had been disposed of, Mr. Gladstone, amid long and cheering applause, moved to the discharge of the order of the day. He then proceeded to the subject of the employers' liability bill. The speech of Mr. Gladstone, in making this motion, lasted only fifteen minutes. He remarked, during the course of his remarks, that he was convinced that a large majority of the working classes were opposed to the House of Lords amendments. He said that the House of Lords amendments were the best judges in matters which related to their own affairs (cheers), and if the amendments were adopted, the bill would be improved, and they would be deprived of all the benefits of the bill.

The Right Hon. J. Balfour, the Conservative leader, who has also been cheered on all sides when he has addressed the House of Lords amendments, claiming that the working people favored them.

Finally the House, by a vote of 235 to 4, adopted Mr. Gladstone's motion, and amid loud laughter, the bill was withdrawn.

Replying to a question on the subject of the Board of Trade, said that he was informed by the Gladstone of the situation in New York that she had not brought back from New York numbers of Italians and Polish allies, and that the situation was not as bad as the United States. The total of the people brought back was eight, five of whom had been refused admission under the "alien law," and three whose destination was unknown.

The House rejected all the important amendments made by the House of Lords to the parish council bill and accepted the unimportant amendments. It then adjourned until Saturday.

Mr. Gladstone's followers had expected a great oratorical effort from the Premier, and they were disappointed. He spoke with courage and strike dismay in the trembling peers. They listened, instead of to Mr. Gladstone's speech, to the speech of Mr. Gladstone's followers. The House of Commons delivered for a long time.

The Chronicle calls the debate in the House a ludicrous farce, and says it would be difficult to imagine more undignified and pointless a debate. Mr. Gladstone's speech was totally unworthy of the occasion and chilled his followers to the bone. The House of Commons delivered for a long time.

FIENDISH ANARCHISTS.
Latest Deeds of Paris "Reds"—Five Persons Wounded.
PARIS, Feb. 20.—The Anarchists are still at work terrorizing and killing innocent people. Three assassinations were committed yesterday, and the police are responsible. The police are responsible for the Parisians to-day.

A man of suspicious appearance recently hired a furnished room in a small tenement, situated at No. 63 Rue St. Jacques. He disappeared on or about Monday, and as he did not return last night the wife of the proprietor of the hotel, Mme. Calabresi, knocked at the door and finally succeeded in breaking in unless it was opened. She, however, delayed in carrying out her intention to enter the apartment until 1:30 this morning, when she again tried to open the door, this time employing force. While engaged in the task the landlady became aware that something had caught in the top of the door, and, upon closer examination, she found that it was to all appearance a bomb or an infernal machine. Mme. Calabresi ran away from the door in alarm and called her husband, who, after making an inspection of the supposed bomb, called a policeman, who promptly but unwisely put his shoulder to the door and burst it open. This caused the bomb, shaped like a sardine box and covered with a piece of red cloth, to explode, inflicting terrible injuries upon Mme. Calabresi, who was wounded in the abdomen, and wounding her husband, fracturing the leg of M. Ismael, a commission agent, who had been attracted to the scene by the arrival of the policeman, and wounding a young woman, who accompanied him. An uncle of Mme. Calabresi also received a slight injury. According to reports, the bomb was placed where it was found by an Anarchist lodger, who was a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

The police, after the above affair had not time to cool when it was learned that a second bomb had been found in the Hotel de l'Esperance, on the Rue de l'Esperance, St. Germain. It was found at 11:30 a. m. and was similar in shape and make to the one which exploded in the Rue St. Jacques. The small hotel on the Rue St. Jacques. The bomb of the Hotel de l'Esperance was found in a room which was occupied by a person known to M. and Mme. Calabresi, and who was aware that they would force open his door as soon as they came to the door. The explosion caused great damage in the apartment, blowing out the windows, cracking down the partitions and doing other injury of a similar nature.

A Perfect Cure

Mr. Joel H. Austin is a man very highly esteemed by all who know him. He is now pension attorney at

Goslin, Ind., and was for 20 years a Baptist missionary minister. He says: "I suffered years with swelling of my limbs, at times very painful, especially at night. I could not sleep. I have taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and for weeks thereafter I have been free of all swelling of my feet and limbs. I have also gained weight and am now in the best of health, which was working down into my Thursday."

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures the most stubborn cases of skin diseases, and is a perfect cure for a perfect cure. Get Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures the most stubborn cases of skin diseases, and is a perfect cure for a perfect cure. Get Hood's.

Justice Stirling has decided that the Duke of Devonshire, who is the Duke of Marlborough, formerly Miss Louise Hamersley, of New York, purchased and assigned to the late Duke, and the Norwegian ship Rosengard has been chartered to convey the expedition.

While waiting at the railway station on Monday for the arrival of the Emperor, Prince Bismarck, in reply to a question whether he was going to Berlin soon, said: "At any rate, not at present. I have nothing to do in Berlin now."

HURT WHILE CELEBRATING.

Thirteen Men Seriously Injured by the Collapse of a Building.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—While the members of the Eleventh-ward Club of this city were celebrating the victory of their councilman candidate to-night a frame annex to the clubhouse at No. 225 North Second street collapsed.

By the fall, and this additional weight is supposed to have caused the accident. The clubhouse was crowded at the time and a large number of men were seriously injured. Thirteen men were seriously injured and several more received slight injuries. The victims of the disaster were left in the rooms only a few minutes before the accident occurred.

JUDGE M'DILL ILL.
The Interstate-Commerce Commissioner in a Critical Condition.

CRESTON, Ia., Feb. 20.—Judge J. W. McDill, of the Interstate-commerce Commission, who has been sick with malaria fever and was thought to be recovering, has suffered a relapse and is now in a critical condition at his home in this city.

McDill came here from Washington to spend the holidays with his family and was taken with the grip.

Patriotic Iowans.
DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 20.—The State Senate to-day passed the House bill requiring the American flag to be displayed in every Iowa schoolhouse during sessions of school.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup"
Has been used over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, cures his colic, regulates the bowels, and is the best remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. For sale by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

The great life destroyer is consumption, yet no one can ever be afflicted with this disease, who resorts at the outset of a cough, cold, bronchitis or Hay's Honey of Horehound and Tar. For sale by all druggists. Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.